The first schoolhouse was built on Jacob Duback's land in 1857. Students included the Simmons, Maxon, Knight, Goodwin, Martin, and Zeek families, a Leiser, George W. Bush, and 26-year-old Alexander Coffey. The second Mill Plain schoolhouse, built on Blair property, still stands on the northeast corner of Mill Plain and 164th. The surrounding landscape, however, has changed considerably. Those pictured here around 1895 include Hannah and Roy Laver. (Courtesy Union High School.)
